The Season of Advent
Cycle A – The Year of Matthew 2016 - 2017

Today we start a new liturgical cycle. Advent is the start to a cycle that finishes on the Feast of Christ the King next year.

Remember that Advent is a time to prepare for Christmas, when Christ's coming is celebrated. It is also a time when we direct our minds and hearts to await Christ's second coming. So, we have a season of waiting and preparing; a time for reflection and introspection; a period of expectation. Let your musical choices reflect and support themes in your liturgies.

It is important to re-iterate that Advent is not Christmas. Avoid the temptation to spring Christmas early by introducing Christmas Carols in Advent. Our Superstores and Shopping precincts will be doing this for you!!

As your community gathers and prepares for the Advent liturgies, consider blending the Gathering Rite with lighting the Advent Wreath. Select a piece of music that can move seamlessly from one rite into the next. This avoids fracturing the movement and adds continuity to the moment. Use this action on all four Sundays in Advent so it becomes familiar.

1st Sunday of Advent (A) – 27th November 2016

Today we rejoice that the night of our long pilgrimage to God's eternal city, the new Jerusalem, will soon be over. The Lord's unending Day is dawning. Already, in the words of Isaiah, we see 'the mountain of the Temple of the Lord' etched against the eastern sky. Let us wake up and stand ready.

You will find below some suggestions for music to support the Christmas liturgy. There is, of course, a wealth of music available for this season, and you must select what is most appropriate for your parish. The following points may help you in deciding what best to play and sing at Christmas.

I would encourage you to read through the infancy narratives in the Gospels of Luke and Matthew. This will not take long – you will find them in the first two chapters of each Gospel. These are the only narratives in the four Gospels that tell of the birth of Christ (neither Mark nor John allude to the birth in their Gospels). Read them both, and compare each with the other. Note how the authors differ in their accounts of the events leading to, and immediately following, Christ's birth. Try to understand the real message that is here – Jesus, born the Son of God, as the light to enlighten all peoples. This must be your starting point.

Christmas is for us all. Too many times I hear the phrase “Christmas is for children.” Remember the Gospel narratives you have just read. Apart from the Christ child, and with the exception of Mary, all the other characters in the Gospel story would be considered elderly.

Consider your own parish and community. Remember that Christmas is a time when families and friends are often together. It is likely that you will share your Christmas liturgies with people who do not regularly attend Mass, or are used to a different approach to liturgy in their own parish. How are you going to make visitors welcome and at ease in your celebration of Christmas? How are you going to include them in the liturgy?

Take time to reflect on how you celebrate these liturgies. Talk to your priests, servers, readers, eucharistic ministers, flower arrangers, anyone who has a part to play in preparing your community. Try something new, but make sure it reflects the gospel truth (rather than that written by Walt Disney!). Whenever possible, encourage active participation – include everyone. Do not swamp the liturgy with new music.

People feel secure with tradition, and Hymns they always sing at Christmas. The mould has to be broken gently, carefully and with sensitivity. One year at a time...
Christmas music collections worthy of consideration:

Welcome the Child (Haugen) – This is a mixed and varied selection of Christmas songs. There is something for everyone. For something new try the composers arrangement of “Silent Night / Infant Holy” – two traditional melodies blended together into one.

Innkeepers and Lightsleepers (Bell – Wild Goose Publications) – A contemporary selection of music for Advent and Christmas.

God Comes Tomorrow (Bell – Wild Goose Publications) – More thought-provoking contemporary music from John Bell. A wonderful mix of Advent and Christmas music.

Veni Emmanuel (Decani) – A hymnal specifically for Advent and Christmas.

Star Child (Haas) – A collection of Advent and Christmas carols

Prince of Peace (Schutte) – Music for Advent and Christmas

Remember that the season of Christmas runs through to the Baptism of the Lord, although this year the last Sunday of Christmastide is the Epiphany on 8th January. Christmas carols are appropriate throughout this season, so your music selection for Christmas Day need not be for that liturgy alone. Continue with any new pieces you have introduced during this season so your congregation has plenty of opportunity to hear and sing the piece. It will lay the foundations for next year when you may want to re-introduce the piece.

Try to keep the carols fresh. I know this is difficult when the more traditional carols have been playing in our shopping precincts since November! However, I suggest once you have made your selections, alternate them at the liturgies. Avoid playing the same carol at the same point in each Mass.

Consider asking only the men in the congregation to sing a particular verse, followed by only the women on another verse. This will need some encouragement and nurturing, but worth persevering. It adds texture to the hymns as the different voice tones lead the singing. It helps concentrate the minds of the congregation on the lyric they are to sing, and, moreover, brings participation and inclusion into the sung liturgy.
